It is in the face of every conceivable inconvenience that the country receives every year four hundred thousand foreigners in to its seaports, and sends the larger portion of them to its Western country.

The inconveniences and dangers to health to which the pioneer is subject who goes out alone or with his family, only in making a new settlement, are familiar to every American.
The Emigrant Aid Company has been formed to PROTECT EMIGRANTS as far as may be, from inconveniences. Its duty is to organize emigration to the West and bring it into a system. This duty, which should have been attempted long ago, is particularly essential now, in the critical position of the Western territories. It has been decided to execute a deed

The Attorney General of the United States has prepared a long and elaborate document, presenting his opinion in regard to pre-emption in Kansas and Nebraska, which concludes thus:—

"In fine, my opinion is, that the act of
